

What does Asimov want you to understand?

That the future may not be that great. Paper books and school where all of the children work together and learn together is better than having everything on a screen.

Provide support from the text.

This statement is true because the text states “Margie was thinking about how the kids must have loved it in the old days. She was thinking about the fun they had.” This quote proves this statement because it shows that Margie did not enjoy her school and that “the old days” were better than the time she was living in.
