

Sequence the major events of the story.

1. Margie's mechanical teacher breaks. She wishes it would be taken away so she could have excuse to pause her schoolwork.
2. Margie's brother, Tommy, discovers an old book about school hundreds of years ago.
3. Margie and her brother learn that students learned from men and women, not robots. They also learned that schools were large buildings full of children who learned, ate, and played together.
4. Margie and Tommy leave for school.
