

New Ideas

Dear Mayor Daley,

In Chicago's future I think there should be more parks. Fields sprouting with green grass can be used for all sorts of purposes. More parks would mean more exercise, more quality time to spend with your family, and more reasons to go outside and make the Earth greener.

With more parks, Chicago would be a more enjoyable place. People would come from near and far to see beautiful gardens, fun fields, and all the different features of a park. Parks should fill the places of unwanted ground and dirty streets to brighten up bad moods.

I think parks would help communities bond and make friends with new people. I can't think of a better addition to Chicago than parks.
