

Dear Mayor Daley,

I think we should add solar panel fields to Chicago. It will help power Chicago's electricity. Then, we won't pollute as much. If we don't pollute, the ice won't melt and the icebergs won't break.

Most of Chicago's electricity comes from power plants. Power plants use turbines to generate electricity. Here's the thing: turbines pollute. Solar panels don't pollute. There will be cleaner air. Soon, the Earth will be a little better in an effort to make the air better to breathe.

Decatur Classical School