Dear Mayor Daley

We would like to tell you about our plan for a Chicago trading post.

Our plan is to make a community trading post. Each little trading station will look like the things they trade.

Our guess is that most of the people of Chicago will come to trade because they can bring in things that they don't like, and trade them for other things.

This will save the earth because it won't use the delivery trucks that pollute the air while they bring the items to stores.

We'd like it to be located in the Heart of Chicago. That way everybody can go to it.

We think it will take at least 2 to 3 years to build. We can also find an abandoned building for the trading post.

This plan is very useful because people won't have to pay anything to trade. It will help in this crisis and prevent others.

Very Respectfully:
