

Expository Paragraph Organizer: Profile a Person

CCSSW4. Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development, organization, and style are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience.

An expository writer uses words to explain or describe something.

Use this page to organize an expository paragraph.

Your paragraph will tell what someone would see if they saw a place.

What is the place you will describe? _____

What is the main idea of your paragraph?

What do you want people to understand about this place?

Then list parts of the place you will include in your paragraph.

Part	Adjectives

Then for each part, list adjectives you will use to help people see what you are telling about the place.

Then decide how you will start your paragraph.

I will start by explaining _____

Then decide how you will end it.

I will end by telling _____

Write your paragraph on another page.

Then draw a picture to illustrate it.
