Dear Mayor Daley,

Chicago is a great city, but I want one little change in the city of Chicago. The change I want is to make businss loans available for kids.

To begin with, my idea is great because kids need money too. And kids want to buy things for them selves. I read a story about some kids that started thier own buisnesses. I would like to start writing children books.

Next, what the city needs to make my plan happen are banks that are willing to give money to kids. We also need kids that want to start a business to help my plan happen.

Finally, Chicago will be different when Mayor Daley makes this change because kids will be happy that they can help their families. So if their mothers and fathers don't have a job kids can have a job and help their families get money to take care of everyone.

Last but not least, my plan would make Chicago a better place by giving children jobs.

In closing, Mayor Daley this will be a great change - because lots of talents and what better time to use them than now.
