

Dear Mayor Daley,

I have my big idea to make Chicago a better place. I think that free city transportation will change Chicago a lot. Most people use their own cars to get to their work. Everyday we have traffic in the streets, so pollution is bigger and bigger every year. Scientists think toxic gases from cars trap too much heat in the atmosphere. This is a reason that people are sick. The popular illness is asthma. Many children and adults have a problem with breathing. Limiting the number of cars driven by people will help people with asthma. My big idea to make city transportation free will help people with asthma. Free transportation will also help grandparents and kids in High school who don't have a job and people who travel back and forth to school and work. And that is why Chicago should have free transportation.

Sincerely,
