Dear Mayor Daley,

How are you doing working on Chicago? Well however you're leading Chicago you're doing a great job. But I have an idea how to make Chicago a better place. My idea is to build more tall buildings in Chicago, either downtown or other neighborhoods.

I think this is a great idea because when more people come to Chicago they will have an easier time finding a place to live. They will be very happy to have a home. No one will be sad or won't have a home.

The things that we will need for my idea are architects, builders wood and metal scraps. The architects will make blue prints for the buildings. Everyone will work together to build the buildings.

After the mayor makes this change everyone will have a home and be happy, because everyone likes to have a home and not be sad. We will enjoy the city. We will also enjoy looking at the city from up high with our families.

Sincerely
