Dear, Mayor Daley
I think a good change for Chicago is we should lower the bills. So, people can get a second chance with a job because people been loosing there jobs. When people have to pay bills they loose there job, and can't afford or she can get. That's how they loose there jobs and end upon the street. I think this is a good idea because some people can't buy the stuff they need because all these things are getting higher. So if these thing are getting lower then every thing will get easier and more people will come here.

They will need more people coming here and looking at Chicago. Another thing they will need is people to stop buying stuff they do not need. I think that is a good change for Chicago.
