I Can Analyze a choice, then Infer character traits and feelings with evidence

CCSSR Anchor Reading Standard 1 Read closely to determine what the text says explicitly and to make logical inferences from it; cite specific textual evidence when writing or speaking to support conclusions drawn from the text.

When a person faces a problem, the person needs to make a choice.

Person: _____

Problem the Person Faces: _____

_____

What do you infer the person felt about the problem?

I infer that the person felt _____.
(Use one of these words or another feeling: happy, worried, sad, angry.)

This is why I infer the person felt that way. I used this evidence in the text.

_____

_____

Choice the person makes about the problem:

_____

This is a trait that the choice shows.

Remember, a character trait or characteristics is how a person is all the time—traits don't change. Here are some examples: helpful, kind, generous, responsible, careful.)

This is why I infer this trait. I thought about actions the person took. I thought about what others said about the person. I thought about what the person said. I used this evidence in the text.
