

Dear Mr. Mayor,
I think that Chicago will be a better place if people who had cellphones didn't need to pay to make them work. I say that because people think that cellphones are expensive. People want cellphones and not pay for it to work. People are stressed about money. People complain. People are annoyed. It would really help because more people will come to Chicago and buy cellphones. Chicago will be more popular. It's good because people are worried about money. If you decide to do my idea it won't cost a lot of money and it won't take a long time. Cellphones are very useful for kids. If they have an emergency they need to call somebody or if they are in danger they can call somebody. I think that you should only pay for a cellphone once.

Sincerely,
