

I Can Predict with Evidence from a Story

CCSSR1: Read closely to determine what the text says explicitly and to make logical inferences from it; cite specific textual evidence when writing or speaking to support conclusions drawn from the text.

This Graphic Organizer can be used to assess if completed independently, or as a learning guide.

In the first column, write a prediction about what you think will happen after a story ends? Writers often write sequels—the next part of a story.

Write what you think would happen after the story ends—what will one of the characters do next?

Character: _____

Prediction What will the character do? Write an action you think the character will take next—after the story ends.	Evidence
	Give two reasons why you make that prediction.

If that happens, what will it lead to?

For example, how will other characters feel about what happens?

In the first column, write what you think would happen because the character does that.

Then explain why you think it will happen.

What could happen next?	Why?
	Explain your prediction.
