

ARTHUR MORIMITSU

THE LEGACY OF A FIGHTER AT HOME AND ABROAD

FIGHTING FOR JUSTICE AND HONOR BACK HOME IN AMERICA

BY: MAX IWEN

WWII - FIGHTING FOR HONOR FROM BEHIND ENEMY LINES

PROVING HIS LOYALTY FROM BEHIND BARBED WIRE AT TULE LAKE

A LEGACY OF SERVICE

BEING A BETTER PLACE FOR SENIORS

MILITARY

PERSONAL LIFE

PERSONAL CITIZENSHIP AKA OF HOME

Arthur Morimitsu fought against enemy forces during WWII as a Japanese language interpreter in the 100th Central Postal Directory. He fought against prejudice and the internment of Japanese-Americans in the 1940s. He was a member of the Japanese American Citizens League and the Japanese American Veterans Association. He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

During the war, I was drafted to be a Japanese language interpreter in the 100th Central Postal Directory. I fought against prejudice and the internment of Japanese-Americans in the 1940s. I was a member of the Japanese American Citizens League and the Japanese American Veterans Association. I was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. I was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. I was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

After the war, Morimitsu dedicated himself to getting the Japanese American Citizens League, leading members of Congress, speaking with the War Relocation Authority. He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

During WWII, Arthur Morimitsu served in the 100th Central Postal Directory. He fought against prejudice and the internment of Japanese-Americans in the 1940s. He was a member of the Japanese American Citizens League and the Japanese American Veterans Association. He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

Arthur Morimitsu, along with other Japanese-American soldiers, was interned at Tule Lake. He fought against prejudice and the internment of Japanese-Americans in the 1940s. He was a member of the Japanese American Citizens League and the Japanese American Veterans Association. He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

The Civil Liberties Act became a law in 1988 because of the hard work of Mr. Morimitsu and others. The US Government gave the veterans of war and their families a payment of $20,000 to each person in 1990. In addition, the Civil Liberties Public Education Fund was established to educate the public about the central importance of the Japanese American in terms of this would ever happen again.

They were not just concerned about loss of property and loss of rights, but they were also concerned about the loss of their American citizenship. They were not just concerned about the loss of their American citizenship, but they were also concerned about the loss of their American citizenship. They were not just concerned about the loss of their American citizenship, but they were also concerned about the loss of their American citizenship.

"I really, a lot of us were looking for monetary payments. We wanted recognition that we were loyal. We wanted to be recognized as Americans." Arthur Morimitsu

As President of the JACC, Morimitsu fought for 12 years for funds to build the first Japanese American History Center in 1993. Morimitsu's 100-year-old family home, built in 1900, is now a museum. He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

He was a member of the Japanese American National Museum and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine. He was a member of the Japanese American National Shrine and the Japanese American National Shrine.

ARTHUR MORIMITSU
THE LEGACY OF A FIGHTER AT HOME AND ABROAD
By: Max Iwen
History fair 2015

History Fair Exhibit
95